

EIDSMOE SPEAKS AT MOAA MEETING

SUBMITTED PHOTO

John Eidsmoe gave a presentation about the life of George Washington and his impact on the early formation of the country at a recent dinner meeting of the Fort Rucker Chapter of Military Officers Association of America. Eidsmoe is a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, a retired Alabama State Defense colonel, a colonel in the Mississippi State Guard, professor of law at Oak Brook College of Law, pastor and author of 14 books. He lives in rural Pike Road, Ala. MOAA is a national organization and the nation's largest and most influential association of military officers. It is an advocate of a strong national defense and represents the interests of military officers and their families at every stage of their careers. The Fort Rucker Chapter is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. Pictured are Major Lisa Bailey, president of the chapter, Major Lisa Bailey, and Colonel Eidsmoe.

2/28/19 Southern Star page 5A

MOAA SPEAKER - At a recent dinner meeting of the Fort Rucker Chapter of the Military Officers Association of America (MOAA), John Eidsmoe gave a presentation about the life of George Washington and his impact on the early formation of our country. Eidsmoe is a retired Air Force Lt. Colonel, a retired Alabama State Defense Colonel, Colonel in the Mississippi State Guard, Professor of Law at Oak Brook College of Law, pastor and author of 14 books. He lives in rural Pike Road, Alabama. MOAA is a national organization and is the nation's largest and most influential association of military officers. It is an advocate of a strong national defense and represents the interests of military officers and their families at every stage of their careers. The Fort Rucker Chapter is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. Shown in the accompanying photograph is the President of the chapter, Major Lisa Bailey, and Colonel Eidsmoe.

THE SOUTHEAST SUN Wednesday, February 27, 2019 Page 3B

Historian keynote speaker at MOAA meeting

Retired Air Force Lt. Col. John Eidsmoe gave a presentation about the life of George Washington and his impact on the early formation of our country at the Feb. 16 dinner meeting of the Fort Rucker Chapter of the Military Officers Association of America. Eidsmoe is also a retired Alabama state defense colonel, colonel in the Mississippi State Guard, professor of law at Oak Brook College of Law, pastor and author of 14 books. He lives in rural Pike Road. MOAA is a national organization and is the nation's largest and most influential association of military officers. It is an advocate of a strong national defense and represents the interests of military officers and their families at every stage of their careers. The Fort Rucker Chapter is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. From left, are MOAA Fort Rucker Chapter President Maj. Lisa Bailey and Eidsmoe. (Courtesy photo)